Funny

Borivoj and Flo the Flea

Bořivoj a blecha Fló

Ivan Binar Andrea Tachezy

Very funny and a little absurd story about an unusual friendship.

Flo the flea has trouble finding a permanent home. There's always something she doesn't like, until she finds Borivoj. He is about to set off for a journey around the world so she joins him. On their way they experience many an adventure and, what is more, Borivoj finds something, or rather someone, he has been longing for.

Adventure

On Eagles' Wings

Na orlích křídlech

Ilona Fišerová Petr Morkes

Tomáš and his friends love kite-skating, riding on a skateboard pulled by a kite. They call themselves The Brotherhood of the Eagle's Wing, almost as if they sensed that their hobby would lead them to cross paths with smugglers of exotic birds. And so begins an adventure story full of mystery and suspense.

Albatros

- the manuscript won Albatros' literary contest in the 21st Century Adventure category
- contains a detailed description on the topic of endangered birds
- follows in the tradition of stories by writers like Enid Blyton: a group of children solves a mystery, which later turns out to be a crime
- combines adventure with more serious topics, such as the illegal trafficking of rare birds, the effect a mother's death has on the relationship between a father and son, and the confusing emotions that come with first love

Modern technology Young Engineer Mladý technik

 Radek Chajda

Do you know where lightning balls come from? How to become invisible? When the first robot was made? How lie detectors work? This book presents a mosaic of contemporary issues and curiosities from the technical world.

Progress is marching ahead quicker than ever, but we are still trying to drive, fly and sail faster (and more economically and ecologically).

We also want better technology for our households and higher industrial production. This book guides us through the world of modern technology, helping us understand why and how the things around us work. For further insight, the book also presents a history of technology. It also teaches you how to use items you can easily find at home to make simple, yet functional machines, like a sail-wagon, a solar lighter, and a rocket from matches.

Hobby Origami Origami

 Ondřej Cibulka

Recommended by origami master David Brill

Origami is a worldwide phenomenon, and there is an immense number of books devoted to the topic; however, this book is truly unique: it is an actual textbook for origami; utilizing diagrams that will be understood anywhere in the world. Among other things, the book contains exclusive heretofore unpublished models by the undisputed masters of the art: Steven Casey and Joseph Wu.

Necklaces, bracelets, headbands and other bead can all be created with crochet. While crocheting beaded jewelry may seem extremely complicated, it is actually deceptively simple. You just need to know how to hold the crochet hook, how to make a strong loop and indulge in your fantasies. Besides, you can bring your yarn, beads and crochet hook anywhere you go. It won't take up much space in your bag and you can crochet while you travel, wait in line, or even sit in the doctor's office.

Homelands Krajiny domova

✂ Václav Cílek ✂ Renáta Fučíková

46 portraits of Czech regions. Beautifully illustrated by awarded artist Renáta Fučíková, the publication shows how to “read” landscapes, their origins, their history, and the people who live in them. “Find your own countryside, and devote some time to it. You’ll be richly rewarded,” says the author Václav Cílek, popular geologist and philosopher.

Comics

Muriel and the Angels Muriel a andělé

✂ Miloš Macourek ✂ Kája Saudek

Never before or since have any Czech comics approached the ambitions and design of Muriel and the Angels—they are comparable to the world’s best graphic novels. If this collection had been allowed to come out at the end of the sixties, when they were originally written, the development of Czech comics would surely have gone in a very different direction. Even today, these comics haven’t lost any of their appeal.
