Do I Know You?

A Guide to Human Nature

CONTENT

There's nothing I don't know about you

Mentalists have long known what modern psychology is only now beginning to understand: People are predictable. Let Timon Krause take you on a trip through the mysterious method of Cold Reading: the art of knowing everything about your opposite number—without being told anything.

In an easy-to-follow style, Timon Krause explains how to gain the genuine trust of whoever you happen to be talking to. Along the way, he has a good many crazy, funny, and sometimes spooky stories to tell from life as a mentalist.

Cold Reading will help you, too, easily open new doors in your private and professional life!

- A new kind of mentalist—young, funny, and charming—reveals his secrets for everyday life
- The only book on the subject of Cold Reading. Timon Krause shows, how predictable human behavior really is
- Timon Krause is an international stage performer and tours regularly

Honey, I Went and Bought Shares!

How to Stop Being Afraid of the Stock Market and Start Making Money

CONTENT

Buying shares: Never a better time!

Most people are afraid of the bubble bursting, but in fact, it's a quiet time on the stock market and the perfect time to start investing in shares. A psychologist and financial expert, Christian Thiel takes potential investors' fears seriously and puts them into perspective. Chapter for chapter, he analyses the risks, challenges horror stories, and solicits opinions from professionals in the field. Readers curious about the stock market can hear experienced investors talk about their own choices in shares and ETFs and mistakes they have made—and got over. After all, investors are like everyone else—but not everyone is an investor. If anything can change that, this book can!

- Overcoming your fear of the stock market
- A psychologist and financial expert gives a simple introduction to buying shares
- After the crash: now is the time to get into the stock market!

Clemens Bomsdorf

How To Become Rich Like Norway

The Brilliantly Simple Way to Build Your Fortune

Updated Edition

CONTENT

The Norwegian (financial) formula for private investors

Norway is one of the world's happiest countries—and one reason is surely that Norwegians don't have to worry about money. And why not? The answer is oil. Norway sells its oil and invests the income in the world's largest state-owned investment fund, the Norwegian Oil Fund. Clemens Bomsdorf has studied the fund's strategy and distilled it into the Norwegian financial formula, which here is adapted to the needs of private investors. Taking their cue from the school of passive investment, even security-minded investors can build a solid fortune. And since ethical investment is fundamental to this approach, their investment will help do good in the world, too. Our readers received this advice with enthusiasm, which is why we present a fully revised new edition, based on the 2019 performance of the Norwegian Oil Fund.

- How every private investor can benefit from the successful state fund's long-term strategy
- With tips for ethical investments
- Fully revised and updated edition of this successful title

Almost 8.000 copies sold

AUTHOR

Clemens Bomsdorf is a journalist who studied economics at the Stockholm School of Economics and the University of Cologne. He has been reporting on the Norwegian Oil Fund for some 15 years. His observations led him to develop the Norwegian financial formula, which has since successfully guided his own investments.

PRESS REVIEWS

"A good choice for beginners." Jule Zentek, boerse.ARD.de, May 30, 2018

"The book is easy to understand and written in a lively style. It takes readers by the hand and addresses subjects that go beyond the usual investment questions." Doppelpunkt, June 20, 2018

"A highly readable book for private investors looking to emulate the Norwegian formula for success and build a fortune of their own—without throwing caution to the wind." José Macías, Rheinische Post, May 4, 2018

"How to build a fortune with an eye to security and ethical concerns, even if you don't have an oil well of your own: This investment guide shows you the tricks." Manager Magazin, May 18, 2018

Julian Leitloff / Caspar Tobias Schlenk

No Such Thing as a Unicorn

What it Really Means to Start a Start-Up

CONTENT

For billion-dollar business

Julian is 22, still in college, and has just had an idea: making jewelry using a 3D printer—that is going to be his business. He loses no time in winning over his friends, family, and investors for the idea and soon has scraped together millions in capital. His start-up is going to take off like a rocket! But then the problems start: He has to fire his best friend, lawyers are threatening action, and Julian has to move into his parents' basement. And then things start to look up again: Forbes votes him one of best "30 Under 30". With self-effacing humor, Julian Leitloff recounts the trip of his life and explains why it's worth sticking to your dreams even if real life doesn't produce unicorns—at least not all the time.

- Everybody makes mistakes—but we don't have to make them all ourselves
- The truth about founding start-ups
- A founders' story, true to life—told with humor and self-effacement

AUTHOR

Julian Leitloff founded Stilnest, his first start-up, at 22, while still in college. He now heads Fractal, a blockchain start-up, which he also founded. His co-author Caspar Tobias Schlenk is contributing editor at Capital and Finance Forward. He studied economics and is a graduate of the Cologne School of Journalism.

Madeleine KühneMillennial Boss

How to Successfully Lead Boomers and Gen Xers

CONTENTGood for respect

“If I might offer you a word of advice there ...”—well, no, you may not. Because young executives in particular have the right to look for advice when and from whom they want. Letting just anybody keep talking at you is no way to get taken seriously. If you want to know how to safeguard your position and tame difficult staff, the person to ask is Madeleine, who as a teenager was already running her parents’ hotel. Her approach is creative rather than confrontational and reveals the paths you need to take to get what you want — and help everyone to get along better while you’re at it. And there’s still a chance to talk about old times over an after-work cocktail.

- The first book to help avoid generational conflicts in the workplace
- How young executives can lead older staff respectfully
- Lively and entertaining, full of practical advice

September 2020
256 pages; 22,00 EUR

AUTHOR

Madeleine Kühne defies labeling. She has had leading positions in several Fortune 500 companies and is active in the IT sector with her own consultancy. As a woman in a male-dominated industry, she has often had to carve out her own path and display courage and endurance where others might have given up.

Susanne Lübben

Dry Aged

How to Restart Life After 40

CONTENT

Matured to excellence

As they turn 40, men are often struck by a vague feeling of dissatisfaction that most often manifests in the workplace. They find themselves insufficiently appreciated and challenged; younger colleagues seem to get ahead much faster. Add to which the loss of youthful exuberance and a growing consciousness of one's own body's limitations, and you have the makings of a full-blown midlife crisis. Is that really meant to have been all?

Absolutely not, says careers coach Susanne Lübben, who has been guiding men through this stage in their lives for many years. Her book offers practical advice on approaching the impending crisis in a systematic rather than emotional manner. The result is feeling better about life overall—with greater clarity, joy, and sense of purpose. There's still a lot to live for!

- Mature, successful, discontented: Susanne Lübben shows new horizons to men over 40 looking for meaning
- The first career guide for men in the midlife crisis—written by a woman
- Huge target audience: nearly 30 per cent of Germans are men aged 40 to 59!

September 2020
224 pages; 22,00 EUR

AUTHOR

Susanne Lübben has been working as a certified careers coach and business trainer for many years. Men around 40 have long been among her most frequent clients.

TYPE OF BOOK / TARGET GROUP

Career advice for men in midlife crisis between 40 and 55.

Klaus Doppler / Luyanda Mpahlwa

The Logic of the Others

Why we must Accept and Understand Difference to be Fit for the Future

CONTENT

Accept, understand, trust: how to get the future right

Who better to explain The Logic of the Others to us than two seasoned mediators between worlds? From their own action and experience, Klaus Doppler and Luyanda Mpahlwa know how fruitful an understanding of the ways in which other people are different can be for all sides. In their book, they give a psychological explanation for the spontaneous skepticism with which we greet other ways of thinking and living. The story of their friendship, however, also shows how mutual understanding can be reached step by step, and how common ground can be found. They conclude that if we are to succeed in the future - as parents, employees, entrepreneurs, and simply as human beings - it can only be by accepting difference and understanding the other's logic.

- Social cohesion in changing times
- Understanding and overcoming fear of the other
- Groundbreaking insights into the logic of harmonious coexistence from Klaus Doppler, master of change management, and South African star architect Luyanda Mpahlwa

October 2020
192 pages; 22,00 EUR

AUTHOR

Klaus Doppler is a psychologist and organizational consultant. He is the leading authority on change management and author of the standard book on the topic. Alongside friends, he founded the organization Themba Labantu, which aims to improve living conditions for people in the townships of South Africa.

Luyanda Mpahlwa is an architect and urban planner from Cape Town. In 1981, he was imprisoned in Robben Island for his struggle against Apartheid. After five years in jail, he went into exile in Germany and lived in Berlin for fifteen years. Among his best-known buildings are the embassies of the Nordic countries and of South Africa in Berlin.

TYPE OF BOOK / TARGET GROUP

For all those who deal with the issues of "otherness" in their environment.

Heike Buchter

BlackRock

A Hidden Global Power is After Our Money

*Updated EditionCONTENT*Money. Power. BlackRock.

The world has never seen an empire like BlackRock. The US asset management giant is in charge of investments totaling more than seven trillion dollars. No bank, no investment fund wields comparable influence. Heike Bucher, financial expert and correspondent in New York City, is on BlackRock's tracks: How was it possible for such a colossus to emerge in such a short time, virtually unnoticed by governments and regulators? What is founder Larry Fink's strategy? Only one thing is certain: The power of this global player is a challenge to our whole economic system.

"Heike Buchter has produced a well-reasoned account of capitalism in its present form." SWR

- The first and only book about BlackRock
- An exciting and revealing look at this invisible global operator
- Fully revised and expanded new edition

September 2020

Over 30.000 copies sold*AUTHOR

Heike Buchter has been reporting from Wall Street since 2001. As New York correspondent for the Hamburg weekly Die Zeit, she took a lead in predicting the financial crisis early in 2007. In 2015 she was the first to scrutinize the activities of BlackRock. Her book Ölbeben ("Oilquake") was published in 2019.

PRESS REVIEWS

"Heike Buchter offers a lively and vivid guide to BlackRock's global empire." Handelsblatt 2015

"With great insight and understand of detail, Heike Buchter tells the story of the irresistible rise of the asset management company BlackRock and its founder, Larry Fink. For all the figures and background information it gives, the book reads like a well-balanced political thriller." Smart Investor, November 9, 2015

"Heike Buchter has written a gripping book that makes business come to life. It never descends into capitalism-bashing, but nor does it ever lose critical distance from its subject." Wiener Zeitung, October 19, 2015

"Buchter carves a path through this subject matter with a full command of facts and figures." Manager Magazin, September 1, 2015

"Heike Buchter is the German Michael Lewis." Sebastian Bräuer, NZZ am Sonntag, August 30, 2015
