You're snoring!

Mr Wolf just can't get to sleep! He finds it impossible to doze off with his wife snoring so loudly right next to him! Then his mind wanders and he wonders if all animals make such strange noises. To find out, Mr Wolf makes his way through the forest – from the wild boar family to Grandma Badger. There are a lot of “gronk-gronk-gronks” and “rappa-pappa-papps” to be heard. All of the animals are sound asleep and snoring happily. Even Mr Wolf feels a yawn coming on and, before he knows it ... “M-m-m-groooh!”

The perfect bedtime story for little snorers!

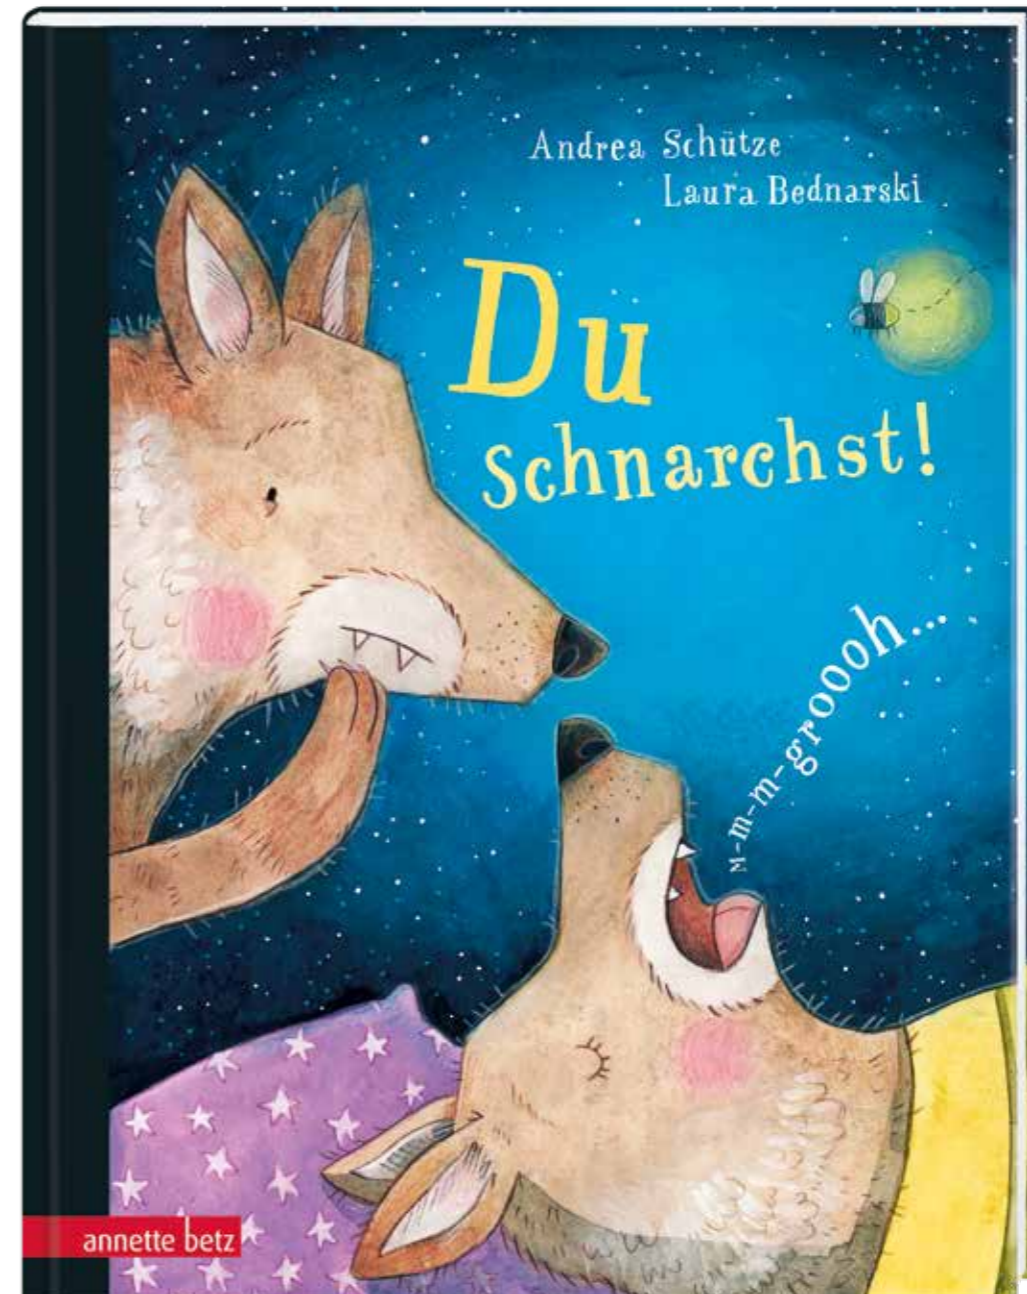

As a child, Andrea Schütze tried out just about every hobby you can imagine. One day, she discovered the joys of reading and a passion for writing books. She is the author of the successful “Maluna Moonlight” series.

Laura Bednarski, born in 1992, grew up in a small town in Germany's Ruhr region. Her first picture book was published just after she graduated from the University of Applied Sciences in Münster. Today, she lives and works as a children's book illustrator in Hamburg, where she is completing her Master's in book illustration.

Mr Hepperlin and the forgotten shoes

Mr Hepperlin has not popped by for weeks.

Day after day, Bent and his father wait in vain for the friendly old man to come and pick up his new shoes. He is normally so regular and always brings Bent a handful of sweets. They even used the wrappers to make beautiful stars. But now, Mr Hepperlin is nowhere to be seen. Maybe he forgot his shoes. Or just got lost? Bent has a brilliant idea he is sure will help Mr Hepperlin find his way back.

A touching story about getting older and true friendship.

Nikola Huppertz was born in 1976 in Mönchengladbach and studied the violin and psychology. She has published numerous books for children and young adults and lives as a freelance author with her family in Hanover.

The illustrator Gareth Ryans was born in Downpatrick, Northern Ireland, and moved to Hamburg with his family several years ago. As well as producing marvellous illustrations, he also works in a bilingual nursery.

“No means no”, says the mouse

The little mouse was enjoying a pleasant walk across the field when, all of a sudden, the fox appeared. With a wicked grin and a glint in his eye, the fox looked down at the mouse and spoke to her with all the fake charm he could muster. The little mouse trembled with fear; she was sure the fox was up to no good. But luckily, no one has to admit it when they're scared. Whatever question the fox asked or weasel words he used, the mouse always replied with a firm “No”. Because the little mouse knows very well that “no” means “no”, even when you are dealing with nasty foxes!

A picture book that makes children strong!

Martin Fuchs studied German language and literature and theatre studies. He has been a freelance advertising copywriter since 2006, with a roster of clients. He lives and works in Hamburg.

Hildegard Müller studied communication design and art education and works as a visual artist, author and graphic designer near Mainz. Her picture books have received numerous awards and have been translated into numerous languages.

Strange bird is back

... and ready to spread his wings!

Michael Engler und
Joëlle Turlonias –
the dream team at
Annette Betz

“Joëlle and I first met when we started working together on ‘Elephantastic’. Right away, there was a flood of creative energy as we told each other what we would most like to write or draw. We quickly filled a piece of paper with ideas. Then we needed something else to write on. As luck would have it, there was cardboard box in the corner and Joëlle started writing and drawing all over it. Over the last few years, we’ve come up with so many new ideas that we have not yet had to go back to the cardboard box for inspiration. Still, it’s good that it’s there. And it’s good that Joëlle is here”.

Michael Engler

Strange bird plucks up his courage

Little red dragon looks longingly up at the sky. His young blackbird brothers and sisters are all flying around like world champions, and he's all on his own in the nest or stuck on the ground. The others try to encourage him: "Come on! You've got wings too. Fly, fly, you can do it!" But little red dragon doesn't dare. Then, one day, he feels a mild breeze blowing and looks around to make sure no one is watching. Little red dragon feels ready. He spreads his wings and gives it his all!

A picture book about self-confidence and taking all the time you need.

Monstrous – Little Dragon makes a mess

What's that rustling in the cereal box? Before Anna knows it, a little green dragon has jumped onto the breakfast table and is playing around, happily squishing through the butter, juggling eggs and splashing cocoa everywhere. In no time at all, the table is covered with splashes and splotches. Will Anna's mother ever believe that a small green dragon made the mess? Suddenly the doorbell rings ...

A dragon-strong story for little snappers!

Mr Octopus cleans up the sea

One day, Mr Octopus finds himself surrounded by what look like shimmering jellyfish and sea dragons. How strange, he's never noticed them in this part of the ocean before. He decides to ask his friend the crab, who explains that these are not animals, they come from the surface world. And they are dangerous! Something needs to be done, everyone agrees! So, they come up with a plan to get rid of the glimmering, balloon-shaped interlopers: They turn them into sea lilies and make people take their garbage back out of the sea!

An inspiring book to raise awareness of ocean pollution.

Beethoven

A picture book the whole family will enjoy: experience the life and times of the world-famous composer Ludwig van Beethoven. His name is synonymous with piano compositions such as "For Elise", "Moonlight Sonata", "Pathétique", the opera "Fidelio", and, of course, his nine majestic symphonies.

Lene Mayer-Skumanz's warm-hearted narration perfectly complements the lovingly selected musical samples on the accompanying CD, allowing readers to immerse themselves in the world of Ludwig van Beethoven.

The life and works of the great composer, written especially for children.

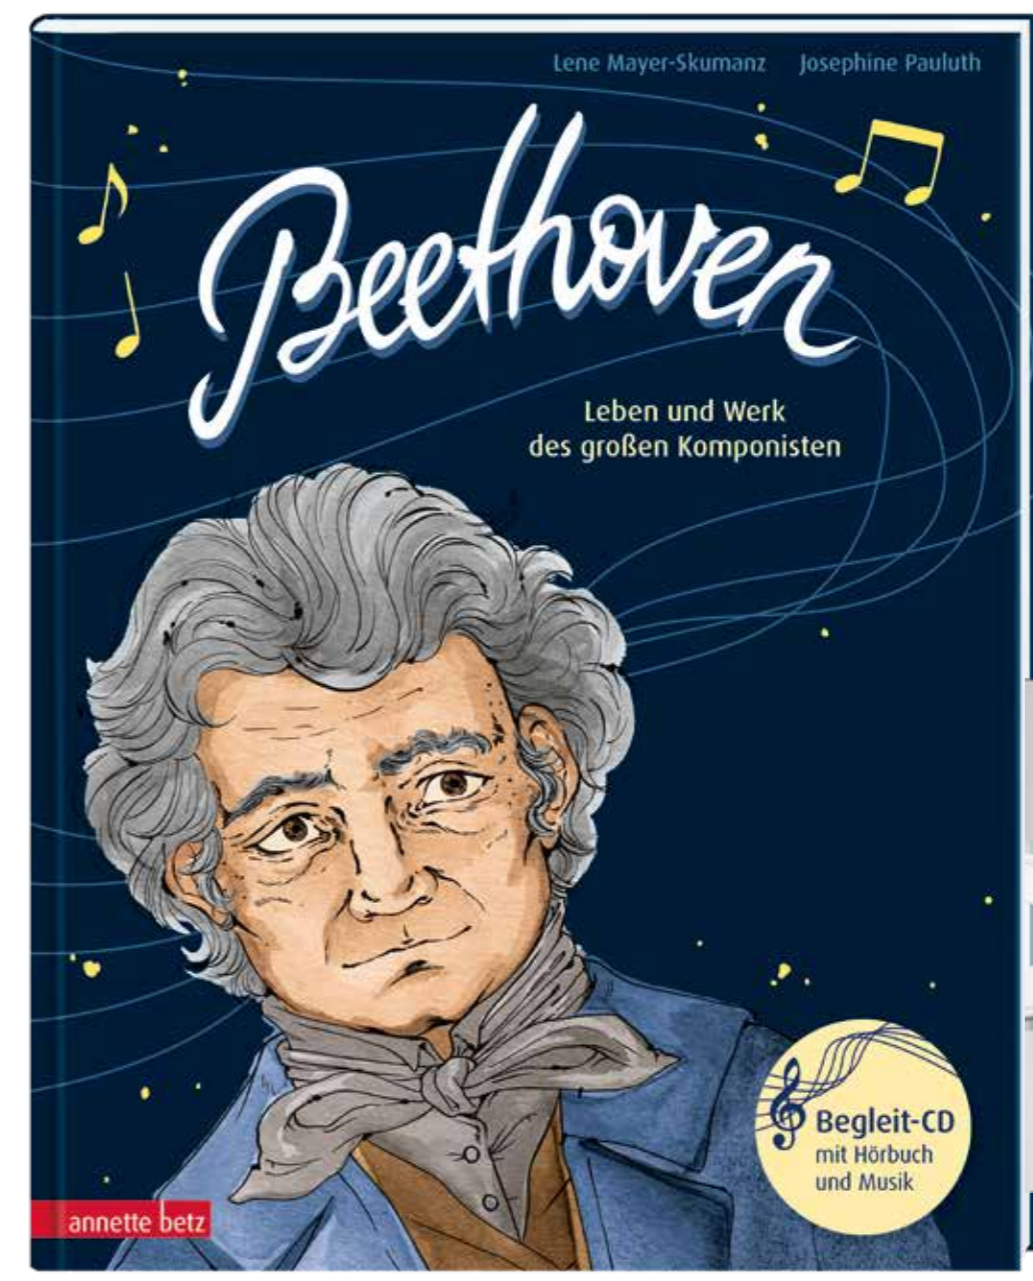

Lene Mayer-Skumanz was born in Vienna in 1939 and still lives there today. She studied German language and literature and classical philology. She has received multiple awards for her books.

Josephine Pauluth has been a professional graphic designer ever since she graduated from design school and completed her training as a digital and print media graphical designer. In 2017, she also completed her studies at the Academy for Illustration and Design in Berlin and has been working as a freelance illustrator of books for children and young readers ever since.

Knight Rusty and the Magic Book

Nothing he says will get him out of it – today is the day Knight Rusty has to go dancing with his beloved damsel, Lady Bö. At least that's what he promised her on the IOU he gave her.

And Coke, the dragon? He's supposed to stay in the castle and go straight to bed. "Never in a month of Sundays", thinks the little fire dragon to himself. After all, he was just in the library, where he discovered the Secret Book of Magic Moments. It's full of secret spells and Coke simply can't resist trying them out ... but the magic book seems to have ideas of its own.

A spellbinding new adventure with Knight Rusty, Lady Bö and the little fire dragon, Coke!

Jörg Hilbert studied communication design and lives as a freelance author and illustrator in Ruhr district. The books of his famous "Rusty Knight" – musicals (music Felix Janosa) have been sold more than 1 Million copies.

Felix Janosa has been composing since he is twelve years old. After having been studied school music, he became cabaret artist, jazz pianist, producer, author and composer of the famous "Rusty Knight"-musicals (with Jörg Hilbert).

The Bronco Bandits

A dream comes true for the bronco bandits Bocky Bill and Romeo in the village of Chili: endless fields of tasty beans and greenhouses full of vegetables as far as the eye can see! This is the home of Darling's world-famous canned soup. For the bronco bandits this means one thing: an unlimited supply of food! But one night, the bronco bandits look on as thieves break in to steal the secret spice mix for Darling's vegetable soup. Now Bocky Bill and Romeo must decide whose side they're on.

Here come the coolest horses in the world: Bocky Bill and Romeo!

weiterzugehen. Schließlich hatten sie sich fallen lassen, wo sie gerade standen.

»Komm in die Hufe, Amigo!« Bocky stupste seinen Freund an, der immer noch selig schlummerte. »Mach die Augen auf!«

»Mhhhm?« Romeo blinzelte verschlafen ins Sonnenlicht. »Wo sind wir?«

»Das sehen wir uns jetzt an«, sagte Bocky. Mit dem Kopf wies er auf die Stelle, wo der Bach hinter ein paar Büschen verschwand. »Los, beweg dich!«

Nebeneinander stolperten die Freunde durch das bucklige Farnkraut. Ein struppiges geschecktes Pony mit einem roten Tuch um den Hals. Und ein schickes dunkelbraunes Vollblutpferd. Na ja, im Moment nicht ganz so schick. Beide sahen aus, als hätten sie schon eine Weile keinen Stall mehr von innen gesehen. Oder etwas Anständiges zu essen gekriegt.

»Hab ich einen Hunger«, stöhnte Romeo prompt.

»Meinst du, wir finden hier –«

Dann verschlug es ihm die Sprache. Sie waren am Rand der Felsen angelangt, und zu ihren Hufen lag ...

»Schlaraffenland!« Ungläubig starrte Bocky ins Tal

hinab: Da waren saftig grüne Felder, so weit das Auge reichte. Dahinter lag ein verschlafener kleiner Ort – eigentlich nur ein paar kleine Häuser und ein deutlich größeres, das etwas abseits lag. Das große Gebäude war umgeben von üppigen Gemüsegärten. Es gab auch Gewächshäuser, deren Fenster in der Sonne blitzten. Sicher voll mit Karotten und Kräutern! Und über allem hing ein süßer, appetitlicher Duft ...

Bocky wusste nicht, was da so herrlich roch, aber es ließ ihm das Wasser im Maul zusammenlaufen.

»Unglaublich«, sagte Romeo träumerisch. »Siehst du irgendwo Zäune oder so was?«

JOJO WUNDERT SICH

Ganz in der Nähe, am Rand des Bohnenfelds, stand Jojo hinter einem Baum und beobachtete, wie Sista, Bocky und Romeo Richtung Berge aufbrachen.

Neugierig schlich sie näher heran und betrachtete die Stelle, an der die Pferde gerade noch die Köpfe zusammengesteckt hatten: aufgewühlte Erde, zertrampelte Pflanzen und überall Reste von unreifen Bohnen ... Jojo runzelte die Stirn. Dann entdeckte sie die leere Medizinflasche aus Lindas Praxis auf dem Boden.

»Wampe«, flüsterte sie argwöhnisch. »Wusste ich's doch, dass da was faul ist!«

DIE BULLY FARM

»Sieht aus, als hättest du uns nicht zu viel versprochen, Sista.«

Romeo stand unter einem windschiefen Holztor und betrachtete neugierig den weißen Bullenschädel, der ganz oben an einem Schild hing.

»Willkommen auf der Bully Farm« stand da in verwitterten Buchstaben – doch das konnten die Pferde natürlich nicht lesen.

»Hier ist bestimmt seit vielen Jahren kein Mensch gewesen«, stimmte Bocky Bill zu. »Gut gemacht, Puppe!«

The Whispering Forest – Where adventure begins

A secret staircase to a hidden attic, records of magical beings and vials of a mysterious, blue “whispering powder”: There are all sorts of secrets to discover in Luke’s new home. And when an eerie figure breaks into his room in the middle of the night and flees with a sack full of stolen goods, Luke is hot on the trail, which leads to the Whispering Forest, where a hidden world awaits – and an adventure Luke will never forget.

A fantasy adventure that you simply won’t want to put down.

aber als er die Stelle mit der Hand betastete, war da nichts.
»Eigenartig.«

Der Tag verstrich wie im Flug.

Irgendwann schloss Lukas das Buch, verstaute es unter dem Bett, brachte das Abendessen schweigend hinter sich (Lisa quasselte sowieso die ganze Zeit) und verschwand im Bad. Das Wasser ging immer noch nicht, aber neben dem Waschbecken stand eine Flasche Mineralwasser. Ein Notbehelf, um die Zähne zu putzen. Er spritzte sich zusätzlich noch das Gesicht ab, bevor er sich wieder in das Bett kuschelte.

Blitz und Donner hatten sich zurückgezogen, doch der Regen klatschte beständig weiter gegen das Glas. Lukas’ Augen wurden schwer.

Mitten in der Nacht weckte ihn erneut ein Geräusch. Entsetzt fuhr Lukas auf.

Jemand stand in seinem Zimmer.

Nur ein Albtraum?

Lukas blinzelte.

Im ersten Augenblick wusste er nicht, was ihn geweckt hatte. Das Mondlicht fiel in sein Zimmer und zauberte einen mystischen Schein auf die Wände. Alles schien normal. Doch wieso war er dann wach geworden?

Jemand atmete.

Lukas zuckte zusammen. Nur einen Schritt entfernt erblickte er ein Wesen. Blaue Haare wuchsen wild in die Höhe, eine Knubbelnase saß ihm im Gesicht, die Finger waren dick wie Kartoffeln.

Lukas schrie.

Der Unbekannte machte einen Satz zurück und schrie ebenfalls. »Ah! Du siehst mich!«

Das Elfeninternat

»Ich konnte ja nichts dafür, dass der Berg eingestürzt ist«, erklärte Felicita.

»Berg?« Lukas starrte sie mit großen Augen an.

»Ein ganz kleiner Berg. Du musst wissen, dass ich eine Prinzessin bin. Dazu geboren, eines Tages über das Elfenreich zu herrschen. In spätestens zweihundert Jahren werde ich alt genug sein. Trotzdem behandelt mein Vater mich noch immer wie eine kleine Elfe. Schrecklich. Und dass der ein oder andere Zauber misslingt, reibt er mir ständig auf die Flügel.«

Ein gewaltiges Schnarchen durchbrach die kurz einsetzende Stille. Punchy – den Namen würde Lukas nie wieder laut aussprechen, aber wenigstens konnte er ihn sich gut merken – vergrub das Gesicht zwischen den Tatzen.

»Ich kümmere mich darum.« Triumphierend schnippte Felicita mit den Fingern. Silbernes Licht flirrte durch die Luft, wie tausend winzige Sternensplitter. »Ein simpler Lautlos-Zauber.«

Mit einem hässlichen Knirschen brach ein Ast des Baumes ab und fiel zu Boden. Direkt neben Rani donnerte er auf die Erde.

»Also ... das war jetzt der Vorführeffekt.« Felicita räusperte sich. »Aber normalerweise gelingen meine Zauber. Meistens. Fast immer. Trotzdem brachte mein Vater mich in dieses schreckliche Internat, in dem ich nun wohnen muss.« Sie schiefte.

»Das ist ganz fürchtbar«, beeilte sich Lukas zu versichern, obgleich er beim Anblick des Astes, der Rani beinahe erschlagen hätte, den Elfenkönig zu seiner Entscheidung beglückwünschte.

»Nicht wahr?« Felicita rückte ein wenig näher. »Und wie ist das bei dir so? Lebst du in einem Palast? Bist du ein Prinz? Ich weiß so wenig über die Menschen.«

»Eigentlich bin ich nur ein Schüler.«

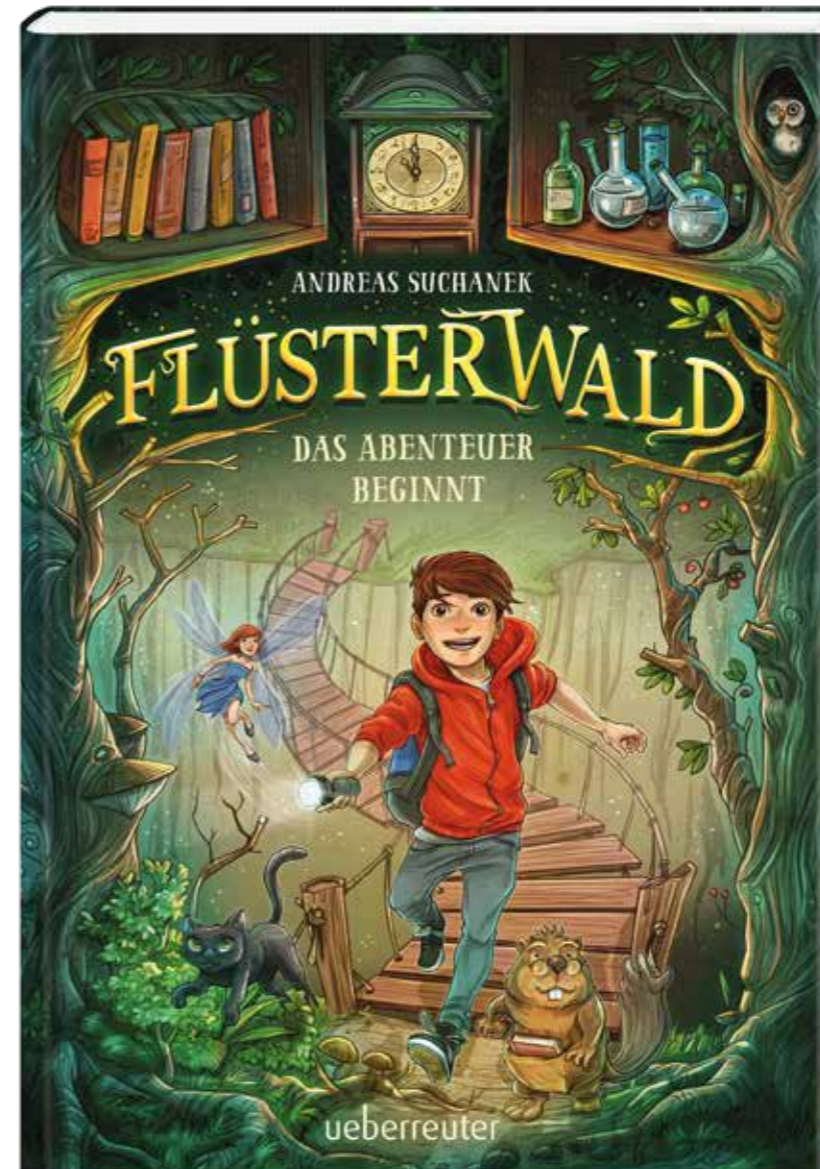

»Ist das so etwas wie ein Adept?«

Rory Shy, the reluctant detective

Rory is not your typical detective: He doesn't like interviewing witnesses, he's too shy to talk to informants, and far too polite to put the squeeze on suspects to crack their alibis. No one knows how he manages to solve one case after another. But twelve-year-old Matilda is one of his biggest fans and can't believe her luck when she is invited to join him during the winter holidays. Will she finally learn the secrets of his methods? As the snow falls outside, Rory and Matilda search for a pearl that has disappeared in the villa of a millionaire heiress. From the secretary to the butler, almost everyone seems to be hiding something ...

My summer with the fire horses

Summer holidays at last! And like every year, 15-year-old Nelly is looking forward to putting her worries behind her and relaxing on her grandmother's Icelandic horse farm. Once there, however, she finds she's sharing a room with her annoying cousin Aurelie. Then there's the know-it-all trainee Matti, who is really getting on her nerves. When it turns out that her grandmother might have to sell her beautiful fire horses, Nelly's world is on the verge of falling apart. Her only consolation is the mysterious diary of a boy named Nonni, who, a long time ago, left Iceland. Amidst stories of Nordic mythology, the struggles of life in the past and Nonni's tender descriptions of his Icelandic horse, Nelly finds a riddle that leads to a hidden Viking treasure. Could this be what she needs to save her grandmother's farm?

Black Glass – Journey to the in-between world

How is it that 13-year-old Elias can see things through his cell phone camera that simply shouldn't exist? A skyscraper with flickering lights that was never built. Winged fins growing out of a classmate's back. And horns on his own head? Elias looks for an explanation – and discovers the in-between world. Hidden from the real world, the in-between is home to fantastic creatures like the subway minotaur, the strange beaked jester and the fiery salamanders that live in the school's boiler room. But the dazzlingly colourful world is threatened by the devilish ambitions of the Lord of the Mirrors, who wants to turn the in-between's inhabitants into black glass. And Elias realises that he could be one of those inhabitants ...

This inventive adventure reveals that there is more to the “in-between” than we think.

Doggerland – The sunken world

Doggerland is the name given to the fertile land that connected England with mainland Europe in the Stone Age. Home to hunters and gatherers, everything was destroyed in a catastrophic tsunami after the last ice age. Some 8,000 years later, the twins Leya and Lex discover a time gate in the North Sea that transports them back in time to this almost forgotten past, where they make friends with the son of the chief Alif. But as they immerse themselves, full of fascination, in life in this wilderness, the big storm is fast approaching ...

A breath-taking journey into a sunken world that really existed.

- 18,000 years ago, Britain was connected to mainland Europe
- This submerged land under North Sea is called Doggerland
- As the sea level rose, Doggerland shrank
- About 8,000 years ago, Doggerland was completely submerged, probably by a catastrophic tsunami.
- Today, English and German scientists are conducting intensive research into this “Atlantis of the North Sea”

Rowan & Ash – A labyrinth of shadows and magic

Ever since he was a little boy, Rowan O'Brien has been betrothed to the Crown Princess of Iriann. The upcoming marriage means a lot to his family, who were once the land's most important rulers and are hoping that their fortunes (and power) will soon be restored. But in the run-up to the wedding, rumours are circulating ...

Some are claiming that Rowan's close relationship with Raven, a magic student of the same age, is more than just a friendship. But Rowan's feelings for Raven are entirely straightforward. In fact, there is secret in Rowan's heart, and it is far more complicated: Rowan doesn't love another woman, he loves the king's son, Ash.

A pair of star-crossed lovers who are sure to take all hearts by storm!

Dearly Devoted Readers,

They say that we put a piece of ourselves into every story we write. In "Rowan & Ash", this is especially true, as the protagonist is extremely close to my heart. The deeply emotional experience of coming out, his struggle for self-acceptance, his fears and doubts are all something I've lived through myself.

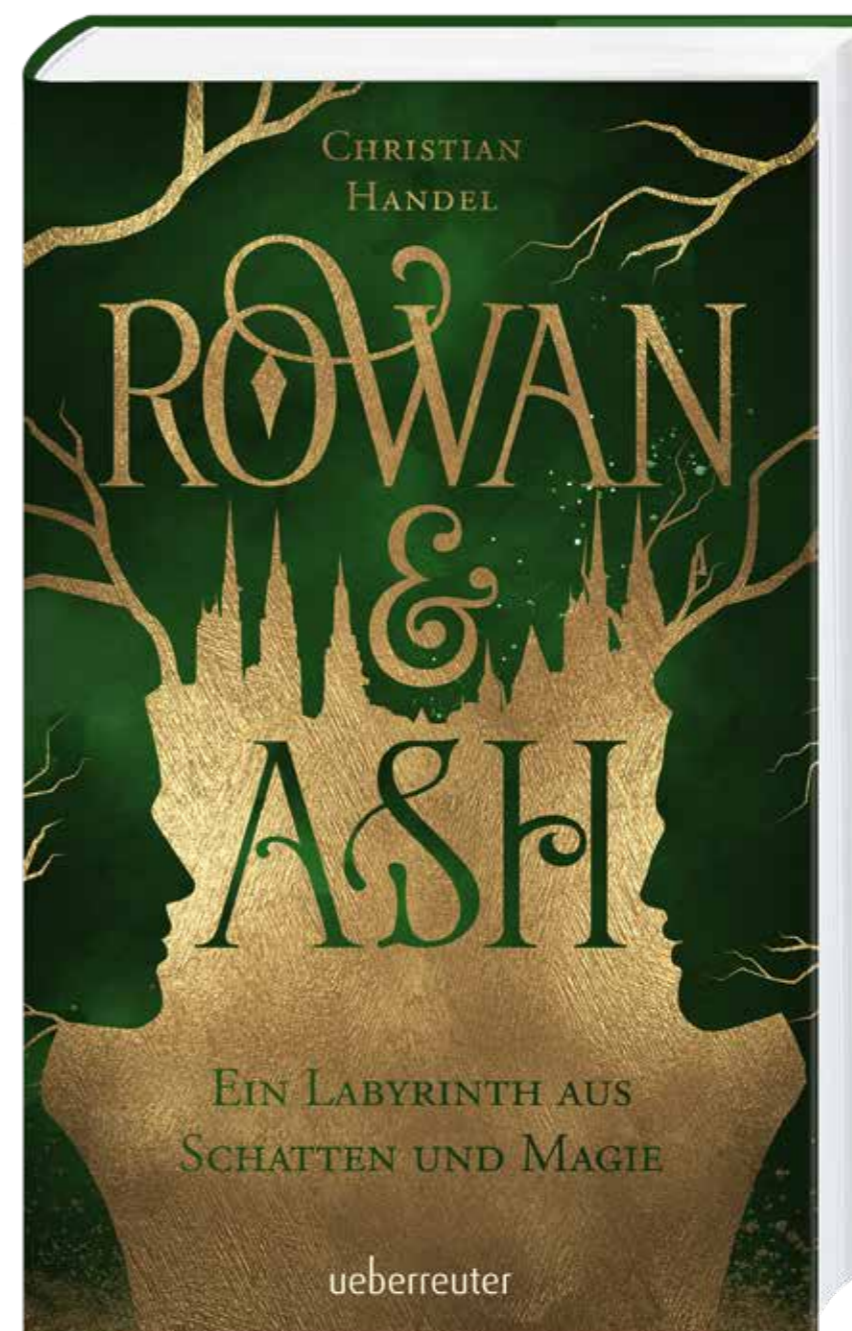

Gay heroes are rare in fantasy. In fact, they're almost impossible to find. Which is why I wrote "Rowan & Ash".

I want queer young people to have positive representations of their own lives. And I hope that this story will touch many readers.

Delete Me – Your secrets have a life of their own

Without explanation, a mysterious message flashes up on Finn's mobile phone: "You have to save Jakob! He's going to kill himself". The message is from Finn's dead teacher, who is communicating with Finn via the Mindhack app. In Mindhack, everyone lives on as a virtual clone, fed by the traces they have left behind on the internet. But saving one life sets off an unimaginable domino effect. Unscrupulous powers want to use the system for themselves – and resort to despicable means to get what they want. Finn and Jakob try to destroy the Mindhack app. But can they be quicker, more unpredictable and attract less attention to themselves than their opponents?

Christmas

The Messiah – The Oratorio by George Frideric Handel

Grandfather and grandson trudge through the snow. They have something special planned – they are going to a concert. On the way, the grandfather is full of praise for George Frideric Handel's wonderful music and the magical story of the tense wait for the birth of the Christ Child. When they reach the church, the lights are burning and the orchestra and choir are ready to begin.

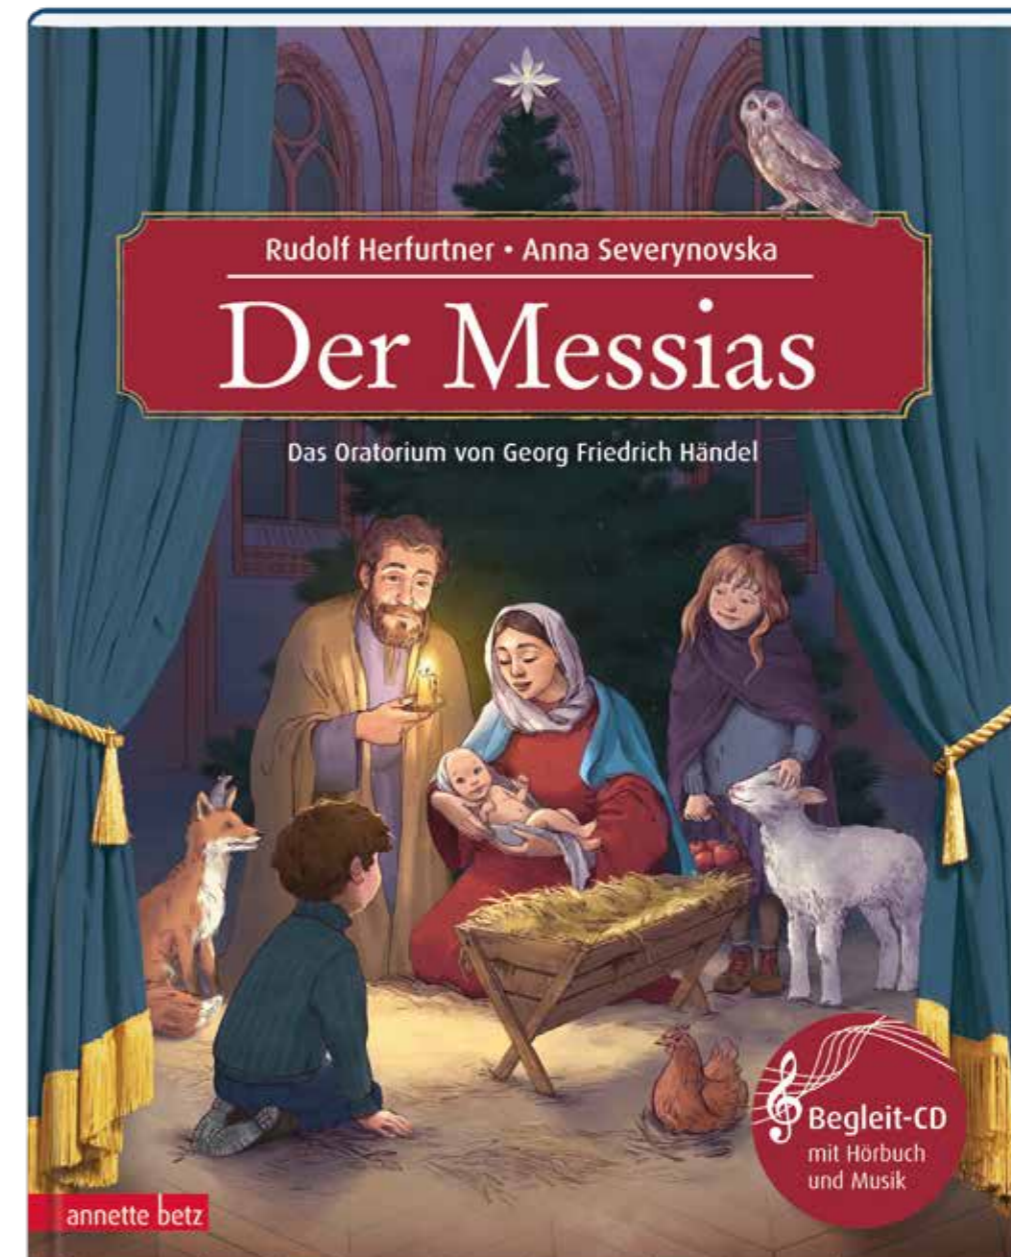

When the first notes of Handel's "Hallelujah" ring out, Christmas can begin.

A musical sleigh ride – with music by Leopold Mozart

The excitement is building! Leopold Mozart's Musical Sleigh Ride is being performed at the concert hall today. Luise and her parents are on the edges of their seats when the musicians finally enter the stage. But what is going on? Why are they all wearing caps, scarves and thick winter jackets? Oh, that must be for the sleigh ride, of course! Now the orchestra really gets going and Luise is soon lost in her dreams of an exciting sleigh ride through the snow.

A concert that is just as exciting as a sleigh ride!
